Erratum to: A Case of Rapidly Progressive Primary Sclerosing Cholangitis Requiring Liver Transplantation

Tae Seop Lim, M.D.¹, Jun Yong Park, M.D.¹, Soon Il Kim, M.D.², Huapyong Kang, M.D.¹ and Moon Jae Chung, M.D.¹

Department of Internal Medicine, Yonsei Institute of Gastroenterology¹, Department of Surgery, Research Institute for Transplantation², Yonsei University College of Medicine, Seoul, Korea

This is the correction about the article of Lim et al. (J Korean Soc Transplant 2013;27:24-8). An printing error was identified in the figure of the above article as follows.

The corrected figure is shown here:

!Corrected Figure

Fig. 3. The trend of total bilirubin, alkaline phosphatase, and alanine aminotransferase (ALT) was described. Abbreviations: PTCS, percutaneous transhepatic choledochoscopy; ERCP, endoscopic retrograde cholangiopancreatography; LT, liver transplantation; ALP, alkaline phosphatase; TB, total bilirubin.

The originally published figure is also shown for reference:

!Original Figure

Fig. 3. The trend of total bilirubin, alkaline phosphatase, and alanine aminotransferase (ALT) was described. Abbreviations: PTCS, percutaneous transhepatic choledochoscopy; ERCP, endoscopic retrograde cholangiopancreatography; LT, liver transplantation; ALP, alkaline phosphatase; TB, total bilirubin.

We express sincere apologies for any inconvenience caused by these errors.